

In the Press: Amster Rothstein & Ebenstein and Max Vern Named to the World Trademark Review's 1000 List

Amster Rothstein has been ranked among the top trademark firms in the world in the United States: New York category by the World Trademark Review. In addition, partner Max Vern is repeatedly named a leading individual in the WTR1000 2020 directory.

The firm is noted for being “A nimble boutique with a gift for efficient and cost-effective problem solving.”

The WTR notes that “Immensely popular internationally, [Amster Rothstein & Ebenstein] acts for a plethora of major brands in Europe, Latin America and Asia, thanks in no small part to the fact that the side includes native speakers of 10 or so different languages, ensuring easy communication with clients around the world. Recent developments include expansion into the pharmaceutical sector as a result of increasing instruction from Korean life sciences entities.”

The publication says that “Max Vern garners excellent feedback from his loyal fans abroad,” including a quote noting that, “Max is a reliable and conscientious professional of the highest calibre; dealing with US filings, oppositions, cancellations and litigation, he achieves fantastic results.” He and the team “are extremely organised and provide a very personal service, creatively handling matters in a way that aligns with your needs.”

Learn more and read the full rankings.