

Amster Rothstein & Ebenstein LLP Expands Practice with Addition of Another Member from Cooper & Dunham

January 1, 2022 (New York): Amster Rothstein & Ebenstein LLP, a full-service, New York-based intellectual property law firm announced today that it has expanded its practice and strengthened its client offerings by adding yet another partner, Paul Tang, from the prominent intellectual property boutique Cooper & Dunham.

This adds to the other professionals that joined the firm from Cooper & Dunham in September 2021:

- Gary Gershik
- John White
- Darren Haber
- Christopher Dunham
- Eric Eisenberg
- Patrick Skacel
- Linsheng Li
- Yangfan Xu
- Roland Rivera-Santiago (Law Clerk)
- Andrew Gorman (Scientific Advisor)
- Tony Taldone (Scientific Advisor)

The new lawyers represent a wide range of clients from startups to Fortune 500 companies and brings additional expertise in biotechnology and pharmaceuticals, as well as electronics, computer hardware, software, genetics, semiconductors, consumer products, medical devices and information technology. The lawyers also have extensive experience in trademarks, trade dress, false advertising, celebrity endorsements, trade secrets and copyrights as well as extensive litigation experience in federal courts and administrative proceedings at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office.

"We are thrilled to add this team to our firm who are among the most experienced intellectual property professionals in the industry. Their depth of experience provides significant value to the firm, our clients and the industries we serve" said Anthony Lo Cicero, Managing Partner. "We are now better positioned than ever to provide a wide array of intellectual property services to our clients."

"When looking for a new professional home, we sought a leading intellectual property law firm that complimented our practice and would allow us to continue to provide exceptional and personal service to our clients. Very early on in our search, we realized that Amster Rothstein & Ebenstein was that firm. We look forward to leveraging our collective experiences and contributing to the firm's array of outstanding legal services," said Gary Gershik.

Douglas Miro, ARE Law partner noted, "We are proud to add Gary and his team to the Amster family. The addition of our new colleagues solidifies our market position as one of the leading intellectual property specialty law firms in New York and throughout the country."

Learn more about Amster Rothstein & Ebenstein LLP.

About Amster Rothstein & Ebenstein LLP

Amster Rothstein & Ebenstein works closely with clients of all sizes to provide sound counsel in all aspects of intellectual property law, including patents, trademarks, copyrights, unfair competition, trade secrets, false advertising, computer software/internet protection and IP transactions.